

Creation of FCA Italy SpA

Fiat Group Automobiles SpA has announced that, effective yesterday, it has changed its company name to FCA Italy SpA.

The name change, which represents the latest phase in adoption of the FCA corporate identity, is intended to emphasize the fact that all Group companies worldwide are part of a single organization.

It also further underscores the success of the integration and the new, truly global organization that everyone at FCA has contributed to creating.

Over the next few months, other Group companies in EMEA and the other operating regions will undergo a similar name change.
